

Motion: Proposed by Councillor Mark Bee and seconded by Councillor Sandy Martin

This council:

Is proud of its commitment to the Armed Forces Community Covenant, which provides practical local support to those members of the armed forces, and their families, who live in Suffolk

Recognises that many other Suffolk residents have, through a range of professions, served the country in equally significant measure, such as in national security and defence – including those who participated in the testing of Britain's nuclear weapons in the 1950s and 1960s

- Believes that, following the move by the NHS to introduce a number of practical measures specifically to support nuclear-test veterans, other parts of the public and voluntary sector could seek to introduce similar measures

And therefore:

- Resolves to propose to the Suffolk Community Covenant Commissioner and Working Group that they consider extending the provisions of the Armed Forces Community Covenant to nuclear-test veterans living in Suffolk.
