- Other (please specify)

Q2 If you've indicated above that you represent a business or organisation, please provide the name of the business or organisation you are representing.

---

Q3 Is your response the formal response of your organisation?

- Yes
- No

This question is about the general idea of devolution.

Suffolk County Council provides public services that cover the whole county, such as social care for children and adults, household waste sites, fire and rescue, trading standards, highways and transport, flood prevention, environment, economic development, public health and registrars. However, in some cases, although the council may be responsible for delivering the services, the Government still makes some of the decisions about how and where funding is spent locally.

Devolution is a process whereby the Government would pass to the county council control of some funding decisions and areas of policy. This has already happened in some other areas, including Greater London, Liverpool, West Midlands and Greater Manchester.

Q4 To what extent do you agree or disagree with the general idea of devolving powers and funding from Government to Suffolk County Council?

These questions are specifically about the proposed devolution deal between the Government and Suffolk County Council.
More detail on the deal can be found in the consultation document.

£480m Investment Fund

Under this deal, Suffolk County Council would get control of an investment fund worth £16 million per year over thirty years – a total of £480 million. This fund would decrease in value if inflation went up. It would be for Suffolk County Council, working with local partners, to decide how best to invest this money but, by way of example, other areas with a devolution deal have used this money to offer local business support, invest in infrastructure and help people access free bus travel.

Please indicate how important this element of the deal is for you, your business or organisation.

Q5b If the deal were to go through, how would you like Suffolk County Council to spend this £480 million investment fund? For example, elsewhere, this has included offering local business support, investing in infrastructure and helping people access free bus travel.

Adult Education Budget

Under this deal, Suffolk County Council would become responsible for commissioning adult education in Suffolk with the budget used to fund learning and training courses for adults over the age of 19. In 2025/26, this is expected to be £9.4 million. This is money that would be coming to Suffolk anyway, but under the deal, we would control how it is spent. Adult Education would change from being managed nationally to locally. We would work with local businesses and adult education providers to invest in skills training more closely aligned with local employment and community needs.

Please indicate how important this element of the deal is for you, your business or organisation.

Regeneration

Under this deal, Suffolk County Council would receive a £5.8 million one-off sum to get brownfield sites ready for development. There are currently more than 200 brownfield sites in Suffolk which could be appropriate for development. Working with local councils, in line with their Local Plans, we could, as an example, help to clean up derelict industrial sites currently standing empty and make them financially viable for developers. This would help create the right locations to increase affordable housing. The deal would also mean that the county council, working closely with district and borough councils and other relevant partners, would get new compulsory purchase powers to buy land to support development, regeneration and infrastructure projects that are in the public interest.

Please indicate how important this element of the deal is for you, your business or organisation.

Transport

At the moment, Suffolk County Council receives transport funding from Government on an annual basis. Under this deal, we would begin to receive multi-year transport funding instead, which would provide greater certainty for longer-term planning. This guaranteed investment could help us to better plan road improvement schemes, reduce congestion and carbon emissions, introduce Oyster card-style smart ticketing and improve the bus offer in rural areas. We would also receive £250,000 each year for two years to support the development of Suffolk's Local Transport Plan. Finally, evidence from other devolved areas suggests that they are more successful in securing Government financial support for locally important projects. One of the reasons for this may be because devolved areas seem to have a higher profile with Government and are therefore in a stronger position to start negotiations.

Please indicate how important this element of the deal is for you, your business or organisation.

Q8 Multi-year transport funding, rather than on an annual basis.

Local decision-making

At the moment, Suffolk county councillors elect the leader of the council. Under this deal, the council's governance structure would change. As well as electing their local councillor, once every four years, Suffolk residents would also get to vote on who should become the leader of the council. The directly elected leader would remain part of the council and subject to the same accountability and scrutiny as the leader is now. The Government has a clear preference for directly elected council leaders, and evidence from other areas suggests that people in similar roles have a higher profile and greater influence with the Government.

It is possible that a leader is elected from a different political party than the majority of councillors on the council, or from no political party at all. As now, the directly elected leader would be free to choose any elected members to serve in their cabinet, whether from the majority party, a minority party, or no party. The directly elected leader would need to work with the other elected councillors to agree budgets and policies.

Please indicate how important this element of the deal is for you, your business or organisation.
