What to expect when working with your social worker

This guide helps to explain the support o ered by a member of the Social Work Team.

Suffolk County Council's Social Care model is People at the Heart of Care.

This could be a Social Worker or an Independence and Wellbeing Practitioner.

Su[~] olk County Council wants to support people to live independently in their communities.

In this guide, we will use the term 'Social Worker'.

The team will also work with you to plan ahead so that you can stay independent so you can have:

This guide can help you to know what to expect, as well as the kind of the things a member of the team might talk to you about.

• Wider choice in how you are supported

Preparation

• Provide access to digital tools that will help you maintain independence

Your Social Worker should prepare to work with you. This could include reading your records so they know a li° le bit about you.

• Make sure information and advice is available

If you have had a Social Worker before, the person working with you should know a li^o le bit about your needs and the things that you like to do.

• O er supported self-assessment

Your Social Worker might also want to talk to other people who know you well, such as a Support Worker, family member or a friend.

Preparation

Your Social Worker will also be thinking about a law called the Care Act. This law tells councils what help they should provide to people that need it.

If you have technology that supports your communication, you should let your Social Worker know.

Your Social Worker will also want to know whether or not you can make decisions about some things.

This is called mental capacity.

When a Social Worker is working with you, they should make sure you are fully included.

Your Social Worker will also want to find out about where you live, who you live with and the things that you like to do.

It is important that you feel comfortable. This includes having the right support around you. You might want to ask someone to be with you when talking to your Social Worker.

Your social worker should ask you how you like to communicate.

Preparation

Before your Social Worker talks to you, they should make sure you know what is going to happen and when.

Advocacy Support

When working with your Social Worker, an Advocate can support you.

If you think you might forget things after a meeting, you can make notes. You could also ask your Social Worker to send you their notes.

Advocacy

Advocacy is about your voice being heard.

Advocates support you to speak up and can speak up for you if you need them to.

Or, you can ask your Social Worker to include other people who can take notes, or remember things for you.

In Suffolk our Advocacy Service is delivered by a partnership which includes POhWER, Suffolk Family Carers, ACE Anglia and Suffolk User Forum.

You can find out more about advocacy by clicking this link where you can also find referral forms for the different types of advocacy available:

Paying for your care and support

You will have to pay for most sorts of care and support if you have enough money.

The council will check to see how much money you have and ask you to pay what you can a ord.

The Care Act guidance explains:

How councils must decide what you pay towards your care and support

Your right to choose your support and to sometimes pay towards this if it costs more than the council want to pay

How councils work out what money you have.

Personal budgets

A personal budget is the money used to buy your care.

Review

Explains how councils should work out your personal budget

Your Social Worker should:

O[~] er you a light touch review around 7 weeks after working with you.

Gives information about personal budgets for carers

Light touch is a quick check-in to see how things are going. It could be a phone call or video call.

Gives information about what to do if you are not happy with what the council decides.

Your Social Worker should:

Arrange a date for your annual review.

This will be around a year after the support from your Social Worker.

Review

You should then have a review every year after that.

Your Social Worker should:

Work with you to support you to achieve your outcomes.

You are at the centre of this process. Things should work around you and your needs.

Your Social Worker should:

Talk to you about how things are going and checking you have the right support in place.

Your Social Worker should:

Invite the right people to your review, if you want them to be there.

This could be a Support Worker, a friend or a family member.
